Love Out Loud

Blessed to be a blessing

Actions speaks louder than words, and nothing can beat the action of caring. Care Corner has been blessed by many of our repeated volunteers, visitors and teams this year. No matter how long or short the visit, it can make a difference in our children’s lives.

Right: Bella Lee, Elysia Chan and CCOF kids at the Grand Canyon Water Park.

CONVERSATION WITH GONG (11)

Me: So how is CCOF different from your previous children’s home?

Gong: The other home was a normal Christian home.

Me: Are we are not a normal Christian home too?

Gong: Well, here, we sing in church and we pray before we eat.

Me: Do you like it here or do you prefer your previous home?

Gong: Here. Over there, we never got to go out. Here, we go out for Mookata (Thai barbecue), swimming, iceskating and other activities.

Me: Were you scared about coming to a new home?

Gong: At first, a little. But after coming here, so many visitors came to play with us. It was fun so I wasn’t scared anymore.
